Assistive products	Products used by people to carry out tasks they may not otherwise be able to do well, or at all. The right assistive product can support a person to be more independent and have less need of caregiver support. Assistive products can improve a person's health and wellbeing, and prevent a person's health from becoming worse.
Mobility	The ability to move around freely and easily.
Rehabilitation	Rehabilitation is a type of health service which enables a person to achieve their best functioning and remain as independent as possible. It addresses a person's difficulties in thinking, seeing, hearing, communicating, self care and moving around in their everyday life.
Vision	The ability to see.
